I WANT TO COACH BECAUSE:

- Sports have been an enormous part of both my childhood and now my adulthood. I have been a competitor all my life, always striving to improve and win. With my playing days behind me, I have turned to coaching to help young men and women achieve their goals of playing at the next level. I believe there's more to being a coach than X's and O's, it's helping develop these young men and women into adults and not only into the type of player they want to be, but also the type of person they want to be. Sports are a vital piece in the mold that makes a person who they are, and that's why I coach my players to the best of my ability on and off the court.
